Re: Treasurer
Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee
MUR # 6751

Dear Mr. Jordan and Ms. Collins:

This is in response to your letter of August 30, 2013 (which was received on September 4, 2013) to the Treasurer of the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee enclosing a complaint from Patricia A. Lavins. Your letter and the complaint are reproduced for your convenience in Exhibit 1. I represent Catherine Wenzing, the Treasurer of the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee and the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee. Their Statements of Designation of Counsel are attached as Exhibit 2. The Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee was formed in March 2013 in order to support the campaign of Ms. Corry Westbrook for the Democratic nomination for the 2014 election to the US House of Representatives in the Eighth Congressional District of Florida.

Pursuant to 11 C.F.R. §111.16, this letter and the accompanying evidentiary submissions establish that there is no reason to believe that Corry Westbrook, Catherine Wenzing, or the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee committed any violation of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended, and no further investigation or action by the Commission or its staff is warranted. I have summarized the evidence in support of the position of Ms. Wenzing and the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee.

BACKGROUND

Corry Westbrook grew up in Orlando, Florida and attended public schools, including Winter Park High School and Valencia Community College. She moved to Vero Beach in 1995 and has traveled back and forth between Vero Beach and Washington, D.C. ever since. In 1996, Corry had the opportunity to run with the Olympic Torch in Indian River County, Florida, when she was selected as a "community hero." Ms. Westbrook earned a bachelor's degree from Florida International University and a masters degree from George Washington University. She has had a distinguished career as an environmental advocate with the National Audubon Society, the National Wildlife Federation and Oceana, the largest organization in the world dedicated to protecting the Oceans. She currently serves as the Federal Policy Director for Oceana.

Ms. Lavins is a resident of Vero Beach, Florida. She is a graduate of American University in Washington, D.C. and was employed by the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission prior to her retirement. She has been identified as a supporter of the opposing candidate for the Democratic nomination for the 8th Congressional District of Florida.

ALLEGATION ONE:

In essence, Ms. Lavins alleged that Corry Westbrook made a false statement on FEC Form 1 which she stated was filed on March 28, 2013. The FEC Form 1 to which she referred is attached as Exhibit 3. Ms. Catherine E. Wenzing signed the FEC Form 1 on March 28, 2013 but it was actually filed on April 1, 2013. As is readily apparent from the form, the first page contains the name of the Committee (Corry Westbrook for Congress) and the address of the committee as 1127 21st Street, Vero Beach, Florida 32960. The information provided was a true statement of the address of the Committee. The purpose of the FEC Form 1 is to notify the Commission and the public of the formation of a committee that is established to promote the candidacy of a particular individual for federal office. It is not for the purpose of identifying the particular qualifications of the individual candidate for that office.

Ms. Lavins further complains falsely that Ms. Westbrook's campaign held a fundraising event at the home of Ms. Westbrook and her husband in Washington, D.C. In truth and in fact, the fundraising event referred to was held on June 1, 2013 at the home of neighbors at 2011 Kingle Road, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20008. Ms. Westbrook and her husband have a home at Washington, D.C. A copy of the invitation to the fundraising event held on June 1, 2013 is attached as Exhibit 4.

INFORMATION

In addition to the address of the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee, the FEC Form 1 filed on April 1, 2013 contained the name and address of the candidate and the name and address of the candidate who was identified as the Custodian of Records of the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee. Ms. Westbrook, who is a resident and domiciliary of Florida and a resident of the District of Columbia, used her Florida address for that purpose. It is true that Ms. Westbrook has a residence in Washington, DC and that her husband, a federal employee, resides at the Washington, DC address. Ms. Westbrook has a vehicle registered to her at the DC address in accordance with District of Columbia law which requires any vehicle in the District of Columbia for more than 30 days to be registered with the DC Department of Motor Vehicles. Ms. Westbrook has been employed in the District of Columbia with an environmental non-profit organization but has stated her intention to resign that position in order to devote full time to her campaign for Congress. Ms. Westbrook was raised and educated in Florida and currently has a residence at the home of her parents in Vero Beach, Florida. She spends a considerable amount of her time in Florida at the present time. The Committee rents an office in Vero Beach, Florida in order to conduct its business on behalf of Ms. Westbrook's candidacy for Congress.

Article I, Section 2, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution states the qualifications to be met by a person standing for election to the US House of Representatives. It states, "No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the Age of twenty-five Years, and been seven Years a Citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of the State in which he shall be chosen." This statement of qualifications has found to be exclusive – no state or individual or even the House of Representatives itself may prescribe additional qualifications for a member of Congress. As Alexander Hamilton said in the Federalist Paper no. 60, "[t]he qualifications of the persons who may . . . be chosen . . . are defined and fixed in the constitution; and are unalterable by the legislature." The Supreme Court of the United States agrees that state legislatures may not add any qualifications to those stated in the Constitution (such as term limits) and that even the United States Congress, which is the judge of the qualifications of its members, may not alter the qualifications stated in the Constitution. U.S. Term Limits, Inc. v. Thornton, 514 U.S. 779 (1995), Powell v. McCormack, 395 U.S. 486 (1969).

Because the eligibility qualifications of a candidate for a seat in the House of Representatives stated in the Constitution require only that the candidate be an inhabitant of the district when elected, Ms. Westbrook, who is over the age of 25 years and is a citizen of the United States, would be eligible to be a candidate for the nomination of the Democratic Party in the 8th Congressional District of Florida even if she had never set foot in the district and was, at the time of her declaration of candidacy, a registered Republican. Moreover, the laws administered by the Federal Election Commission, in this case, the Federal Election Campaign

Act of 1971, do not contain any residency requirement other than that stated in the Constitution. Thus, there is no reason to believe that Ms. Westbrook's statements on the FEC Form 1 were false and that there is any matter within the jurisdiction of the Commission to adjudicate based upon Ms. Lavins' allegation one.

ALLEGATION TWO

Ms. Lavins alleges, without benefit of any evidence, that Ms. Westbrook is using campaign donations in order to pay for her travel from her home in Washington, D.C. to her home in Vero Beach, Florida. This statement is false. Attached to this letter as Exhibit 5, are pages 86 to 97 of Ms. Westbrook's Campaign Committee's most recent report to the Commission on receipts and disbursements showing all disbursements made by the campaign committee. None of the disbursements are for airline or other travel of Ms. Westbrook to the 8th district. The only lodging expense was for a hotel room in Hollywood, Florida which is in South Florida and outside the district and was for a meeting connected with the campaign.

There is not only no reason to believe that Ms. Westbrook is using campaign funds to travel from Washington, DC to the 8th Congressional District, but even if she did, in my view, such expenditures would be a proper use of campaign donations. The Commission's August 2011 guide, "Congressional Candidates and Committees" (the "Guide") states that a candidate's travel in connection with her campaign activities is a legitimate operating expense of the campaign committee. (Guide, page 51). Because Ms. Westbrook's personal travel between Washington, DC and the 8th Congressional District has been paid for by her personal funds, those expenses are not considered campaign expenses and are not reportable by the Committee. 11 C.F.R. § 100.153 and 113.1(g)(1)(ii)(C) cited in the Guide at p. 51. While Ms. Westbrook's travel between her residence in Washington, DC and her residence in the 8th Congressional District is frequently for the purpose of attending campaign-related events, working with the volunteers who staff her campaign office, and meeting with campaign volunteers and prospective voters, Ms. Westbrook has elected not to charge those travel expenses as campaign expenses and has paid for those travels out of personal funds.

The statute and the regulations provide that the use of funds donated to the campaign for personal use is prohibited. 2 U.S.C. § 439a(B)(1) and 11 C.F.R. § 113.2(e). Under the "irrespective test" set forth in 11 C.F.R. § 113.1(g), if a candidate for federal office would incur the expense regardless of her duties as a candidate for federal office then the expense is a personal expense. Ms. Westbrook has chosen to treat her travel between her two residences in Washington DC and the 8th Congressional District as personal expenses and pay for them out of her personal funds even if the purpose of the travel is to fulfill campaign commitments and attend campaign-related events. Should Ms. Westbrook change her practice in this regard, she and her campaign committee will keep records and logs that will demonstrate that the expenditure of funds charged to the Committee for Ms. Westbrook's travel primarily would be to enable the candidate to attend campaign-related events. The Committee will keep logs and records to document the campaign use and non-campaign use of such funds and to permit Ms. Westbrook to reimburse the Committee for the de minimus portion of travel funds expended that facilitate her travel to her personal residence in Florida to and from her personal residence in Washington, D.C. in accordance with 11 C.F.R. §102(9)(b)(1).

Accordingly, there is no reason to believe that the Treasurer or the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee has engaged in any conduct in violation of the Federal Election Campaign Finance Act of 1971 or the regulations implementing it.

ALLEGATION THREE

Ms. Lavins complains that Ms. Westbrook is not advising a "gullible electorate" that she is not a legal resident of Florida.

As set forth in the accompanying affidavit, attached as Exhibit 6, Ms. Westbrook has a residence at 1955 3rd Street, Vero Beach, Florida 32962 and has been a life long resident of Florida. She has another residence in Washington, DC where her husband, a federal employee who works for the Environmental Protection Agency, resides. Ms. Westbrook is domiciled in Florida. Ms. Westbrook is registered to vote in Florida.

The Corry Westbrook for Congress campaign maintains a website at www.corrywestbrookforcongress.com and sets forth information about the candidate as follows in its section entitled, "Meet the Candidate."

Corry Westbrook was raised in Orlando, Florida where she established her hard-working middle class value system and found her appreciation for nature and the environment. She's taken those values to Washington, D.C., working to ensure the planet our children inherit is as good or better than the one we were given. She has worked with a wide variety of people with different world and political views to collaborate and deliver results that matter.

Corry Westbrook has spent most of her career in Washington, D.C. working to make the air cleaner, the water safer, and protecting our native wildlife. She has done this as a public servant, working grassroots throughout the south, and in the halls of Congress.

Jeff S. Jordan, Esq.
September 19, 2013
Page 6

Pamela B. Stuart
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

Along the way she has learned to work well with individuals of varying positions and approaches.

Corry Westbrook joined Oceana, the largest conservation organization in the world dedicated entirely to protecting the oceans, in August 2011. As Federal Policy Director, she creates and manages federal policy and legislation for Oceana. Many of the issues she works on are very important to the 8th district: fisheries management, stopping harmful new oil and gas leasing, mitigating ocean acidification, increasing clean, renewable energy off shore, eliminating foreign government subsidies for commercial fishing, and protecting endangered wildlife. Corry works with members of Congress, Administration officials, fishermen, the conservation community, activists, and other stakeholders to move legislation and policies forward to protect our oceans.

Before joining Oceana, Corry served as Legislative Director for the National Wildlife Federation (NWF), where she worked with sportsmen, federal and state agencies and other partners to save wildlife across America and in iconic places like the Florida Everglades National Park. She also worked on energy and Clean Water Act campaigns and to increase funding for the National Wildlife Refuge System nationwide, including the four in the 8th district.

Corry was a contributing author to the book Cane Toads and Other Rogue Species, and served as NWF's liaison with the Department of Defense. In 2005, she wrote a report entitled "Under Siege: Invasive Species on Military Bases" which explains how invasive species impede military training and readiness and was used as a resource guide for training new military installation natural resource managers.

Prior to joining NWF, Corry was a Regional Grassroots Coordinator for the National Audubon Society, managing an eight-state region that included Florida. Before moving into the nonprofit sector, she worked as a public servant, both at the Environmental Protection Agency as a Policy Analyst, and as a Peace Corps Volunteer on the island of Nevis in the Eastern Caribbean.

Corry holds a bachelor's degree in Environmental Studies, with a minor in Biology, from Florida International University and a Master's degree in Environmental and Natural Resource Policy from the George Washington University.

Corry grew up in Orlando and attended public schools, including Winter Park High School and Valencia Community College. She moved to Vero Beach in 1995 and has traveled back and forth between Vero Beach and Washington, D.C. ever since. In 1996, Corry had the opportunity to run with the Olympic Torch in Indian River County when she was selected as a "community hero."

Corry has run 13 marathons in various cities throughout the U.S. and abroad, including Washington, D.C., Minneapolis/St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Portland, New Orleans, Edinburgh and Prague. Corry has traveled to all seven continents and visited all 50 states. She loves adventures and has climbed Mt. Kilimanjaro in Tanzania and hiked the Inca Trail in Peru.

Thus, if a "gullible electorate" wished to know that the candidate has devoted her career to environmental causes with organizations based in Washington, D.C., that information is plainly described by the Committee on its website. Domicile is primarily a matter of a person's intent. A person may have several residences but the domicile of the person – the place where the person intends to return – is a matter of intent and may be established by proof of that intent. As one Florida court said, there is a difference between the terms "domicile" (sometimes referred to as legal, permanent or primary residence) and "residence." McCarthy v. Alexander, 786 So. 2d 1284 (Fla. 2d DCA 2001). Domicile involves the intent of an individual to make Florida his or her legal residence. McCarthy. It is the place where an individual has a true, fixed and permanent home, to which he intends to return whenever he is absent. See Chisholm v. Chisholm, 98 Fla. 1196, 125 So. 694 (Fla. 1929); Keveloh v. Carter, 699 So. 2d 285 (Fla. 5th DCA 1997); Latta v. Latta, 654 So. 2d 1043 (Fla. 1st DCA 1995). A person can have only one legal residence or domicile; on the other hand, a person may have several "residences." Keveloh; Walker v. Harris, 398 So. 2d 955 (Fla. 4th DCA 1981). See also Wade v. Wade, 93 Fla. 1004, 113 So. 374 (Fla. 1927). The difference between domicile and residence is a matter of objective fact. McCarthy. Domicile is established when there is a good faith intention to establish a particular residence as a permanent home, coupled with the physical move to the new residence, as evidenced by positive overt acts. Keveloh. The best proof of domicile is where the individual says it is, because intent is highly significant. Keveloh. Removal from one's domiciliary jurisdiction without the intent to change one's domicile is insufficient. Keveloh. Once established domicile continues until it is superceded by a new domicile. Wade.

Corry Westbrook is, like many in Indian River County, a resident of Florida as well as another jurisdiction. In her case, Ms. Westbrook also resides in the District of Columbia. Ms. Westbrook has life-long ties to the State of Florida and has expressed her intent to keep Florida as her permanent home on many occasions. The fact that her husband, a federal employee, lives in the District of Columbia does not determine Ms. Westbrook's status as a legal resident of Florida. A Florida court remarked in Markham v. Markham, 265 So.2d 59, at 62 (Fla.App.1st, 1972):

Jeff S. Jordan, Esq.

Pamela B. Stuart
ATTORNEY AND COUNSELLOR AT LAW

"A married woman is no longer her husband's chattel. She is a citizen - she is an individual - and her rights are as paramount as his. The law properly protects married women in their right to independently acquire, encumber, accumulate [*724] and alienate property at will. They now occupy a position as equal partners in the family relationship resulting from marriage . . ."

The Florida court in Markham concluded that it would be "completely anachronistic" to hold that a wife could not obtain a domicile or residency different than that of her husband. Federal employees, like members of the military, may retain their voting residence in another jurisdiction if their work station is in the District of Columbia or elsewhere other than their state of domicile.

Therefore, there is no reason to believe that the Treasurer or the Corry Westbrook for Congress Campaign Committee have violated the Federal Election Campaign Finance Act of 1971 or the regulations implementing it.

CONCLUSION

On behalf of Ms. Wenzling, the Treasurer, and the Corry Westbrook for Congress Campaign Committee, I submit that there is no evidence that either Catherine Weinzing, as Treasurer of the Corry Westbrook for Congress Committee or the Committee violated any laws or regulations administered by the Commission and that the Commission should find that there is no reason to believe any violations occurred and should dismiss this complaint with prejudice.

Out of an abundance of caution, I notify you that Ms. Lavins has been sending blast emails to a wide variety of recipients publicizing the existence of a complaint at the FEC naming Ms. Westbrook which I know is in violation of the spirit of 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(12)(A). She has threatened to launch a media campaign trumpeting this complaint on September 30, 2013. I have sent her a written response to her emails requesting that she cease and desist to no avail. I have attached a copy of my letter to Ms. Lavins as Exhibit 7. You may wish to advise Ms. Lavins that she is legally prohibited from making statements about any pending Commission investigation without written permission of the respondent.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Respectfully submitted,
